THERE is a simple, sensible reason why Heywood-Wakefield STREAMLINE furniture is so popular with consumers and homemakers . . . why it is so outstandingly successful on the furniture floors of America. Each and every piece of Heywood STREAMLINE furniture shown in this catalogue represents long, practical, sound experience in the manufacture of modern furniture . . . the expenditure of many thousands of dollars, each year, in employing foremost modern designers . . . and the constant, helpful contact with leading retailers as well as actual users of modern furniture. Heywood-Wakefield was the first American manufacturer to produce modern furniture in sizable quantity . . . the first American manufacturer to recognize modern as a definite, lasting period of design . . . and the first manufacturer to place behind modern a well planned development program which has brought Heywood-Wakefield STREAMLINE furniture to its livable, comfortable, salable peak of today. Your customers will like Heywood-Wakefield STREAMLINE furniture and they'll like to live with it . . . enjoy its comfort . . . month after month and year after year. Because . . . Heywood STREAMLINE furniture is simple, tasteful, interesting furniture that is never freakish or faddish. It is distinctive furniture; designed, built, and finished to wear gracefully through the years and to serve in practical fashion in any size or type of home. You can sell Heywood STREAMLINE pieces with the obvious assurance that it is well styled, comfortable, useful . . . and with the guaranteed assurance that it is of high quality, built by a manufacturing organization with more than 111 years of experience in producing fine furniture. That is why we believe the Heywood-Wakefield STREAMLINE furniture shown in this catalogue represents an excellent sales possibility for every alert American retailer.

In this beautiful "Airflow" dining group, the more sophisticated or elegant modern motifs are employed. Of particular distinction are the china and buffet which feature softly rounded bends of solid wood, a most unusual construction feature which few manufacturers are able to achieve.

The dining chairs in the above group (which we have retained in our line for seven years) are considered by connoisseurs to be the best modern designs yet achieved. We do know, from experience, that they're mighty interesting and very salable. The table, with swing-under leaves, has a distinctive, bentwood underconstruction.

As the view above proves, even the inexpensive modern groups can be well styled if sufficient thought, expert designing talent, and practical experience are employed in their construction. This little group is not expensive, but it looks that way and it is ever so useful and enjoyable. The table is of the extension type and opens to 30" x 50".

HEYWOOD-WAKEFIELD

On this and the following two pages, we proudly present our "Airflow" bedroom designs. Perhaps their most unusual and distinctive feature is in the rounded or "swell-fronts". These graceful bends, of solid wood, are one of the most difficult achievements of all furniture making . . . possible only with expensive, exclusive machinery which Heywood-Wakefield first developed more than 60 years ago.

At the risk of repeating that over-worked adjective, we still maintain that this vanity is "glamorous". The round, attached mirror is 48" (4 feet) in diameter! The attractive little vanity seat, before it, adds a gay touch to the combination. Both pieces are from the famous "airflow" bedroom group . . . and both pieces will do their share in creating a most charming, attractive bedroom setting.
